What is an undemocratic practice?

- ⦿ An undemocratic practice is a doctrine that is against or in disagreement with democracy.
- ⦿ Democracy is a political system for choosing and replacing the government in which everybody should participate.

- ⦿ This means that undemocratic practices include other political systems such as monarchy, aristocracy, anarchy, etc.
- ⦿ Monarchy = Royalty.
- ⦿ Anarchy = No rules for anyone to follow.

What use does it have?

- ◉ Not all countries follow a democratic system, there are many societies a big number of countries who still use an anarchic system.
- ◉ Monarchy is also somewhat common as countries such as England and Spain have decided to keep using it.

Is it good?

- ◉ Democracy is a great way of choosing our leaders but it proves to be hard to make rules that every citizen will follow.
- ◉ Also, in democracy, the majority wins, but this isn't always a good thing. The other side will be upset, creating violence and corruption.
- ◉ Instead, anarchism has no leaders and monarchy has them by default.

...Or is it bad?

- People are educated depending on where they grow, and if you grow up with no one to follow rules from, you can have problems later on.
- In the royalty, the younger brothers of the heir to the throne know that they will have no chances of being king unless the future king gets killed, so that can create family complications.

Conclusion

- Undemocratic practices may not always be the best option for a number of people, but they work fine in most places where they are followed.
- Democratic ones are hard and take a long period of time in preparation, voting, and choosing. Besides, who chooses how long a president stays in the power? The people do.

- That means only you have the power to ~~decide which political system works best~~ for you.
- It's up to you, but a factor that should be taken in consideration is where you live.
- You should consider moving to a place where the political views suit you in a better way and you are comfortable with the government.

for your attention.
